"The Evening World" Predicted Before the Convention that Hill Would Be Chesen.

When the inside history of the New York State Democratic Convention of 1894 is published some peculiar facts will he revealed in it, and the wonderful enthusiasm with which the body nominated Senator Hill for Governor will not show quite so much spontanelty as appeared upon the surface.

Political critics in this city have already begun the task of picking holes gaudy curtain of "personal popularity" that the leaders in the Convention dropped upon their deliberations. and some of these critics are declaring that the peep thus obtained of the Convention machinery has convinced them that Senator Hill's nomination was as much of a cut-and-dried affair as that of Levi P. Morton.

Just here it may not be amiss to call attention to the fact that "The Evening World," on Sept. 19, last, said in its

The reasons for this impression are not hard and the logical candidate of the Democracy for President in 1896 will be the Democratic Gorernor of the fitate of New York-if, indeed, New York should happen to elect a Democratic Cov-

Gov. Flower's determination not to try for a mination was reached very suddenly, and was unced at a time when every one supposed he had what is, in race-track parisone, termed "a cinch." His recent tour of the farming districts and his speeches to the farmers are med to indicate that he was stumping the State to win delegates, and now his sudden change of heart and mind is interpreted to mean only that he has been notified by the machine beares that he must stand aside and lef Hill try for the goal. Hill is the acknowledged leader of the machine in the State, and his personal popularity, it is confidently believed, would strengthen the machine and perhaps heal or oridge over the differences that now exist between certain of the party lead-

Then the machine men proceeded to be lect some dummy candidates to mask it their real intentions. John Hoyd Thacher, of Albany, was brought forward as 'Hill's choice, and Daniel Lackwood as the choice of Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan.

"Then the 'reformers' began to urse the nomination of Judge William J. Gaynor, of Brooklyn and his boom som assumed such proportions that the leaders had to concoct a scheme to puncture it.

"It was necessary to exercise applomacy with Judge Gayner that diplomacy with Judge Gayner than had been called into play against the others however. He stood for Keform first, last and a? the time, and had great strength. It would not do to approach him as a party to a deal, and so it was decided to pretend to offer him the nomination and at the same time make it impossible of an honorable acceptance by innuendo attacks upon his private life emanating from among the delegates to the very Convention that seemed anxious to have him accept.

"Judge Gaynor's manly retort upon such methods was made in a letter given out Tuesday night, in which there appeared this indication that Judge Gaynor understood the purpose of his cannies, and seemed to strike at Hill.

Then Came Belmont.

"Then a strong effort was made to trengthen the mass. Perry Belmont was solicited to allow the use of his name for second place on the 'eleventh-our slate.' Then came a complication he leaders hadn't counted on. "Why not first place? sokied Belmont. "Because that is promised to Thach-ry, he was told.

"And so Belmont declared nimes, of it in a huff.

"Then Charles P. McClelland, of Westchester County, was approached, and not being in the secret he consented. Then the Siste that was put up to be smashed was completed, by the addition of the name of Judge Robert T. Titus, of Buffalo, for Court of Appeals Judge.

"The leaders then entered the Convention, the slate" carried very carefully in the van, lest it should fall to pleces of its own weight before the time agreed upon.

Letting Out the Secret.

"While Mr. Hitt was pronouncing the benediction, according to programme, upon Mr. Hill's mask, the machine agents were letting some of the boys' into the secret, and telling them that Hill was to be surprised by a stampele for him that would compet him to ac-cept.

The authority referred to enumerates these incidents in this way:

"It was the purpose of the party managers to demonstrate deliberably that there was no other available candidate but David B, Hill, and how they did it is a matter of record. The record may be interpreted differently, however, by different persons.
